Levant Trade Review

PUBLISHED BY THE
American Chamber of Commerce for the Levant.

Conférence Mondiale des Commerçants Américains avec l'Etranger.

Fait assez curieux, ce fut l'année historique 1914, juste avant le commencement de la grande guerre mondiale, qui vit le point de départ d'une tentative nouvelle et aggrandie en vue du développement du commerce des Etats-Unis d'Amérique avec l'étranger.

Ce premier pas fut fait sous la direction combinée de trois organisations, l'Association des Manufacturiers Américains pour l'Exportation, l'Association Asiatique-Américaine et l'Association Pan-Américaine des Etats-Unis. Sous leurs auspices 400 délégués se réunirent à Washington, D. C., les 27 et 28 mai, 1914, représentant 100 organisations industrielles américaines de toutes les sections. Ils se réunirent dans le but de développer une politique commerciale avec l'étranger sur une base solide.

A cette, première assemblée à Washington le sentiment généralement exprimé fut que des efforts constants et continus étaient nécessaires pour le développement d'une politique nationale en ce qui regarde le commerce avec l'étranger. Pour qu'une telle politique puisse être développée, l'assemblée élut un comité spécial et permanent dont l'un des devoirs était la convocation d'une assemblée nationale annuelle pour le commerce avec l'étranger. La résolution comme elle fut adoptée, portait que le comité serait connu sous le nom de "Conseil du Commerce National avec l'Etranger".

Depuis 1914 une assemblée nationale a eu lieu chaque année. Les hommes qui ont été les agents en encourageant ces assemblées annuelles considèrent comme un devoir public de supporter le travail du Conseil. Le Conseil lui-même comprend 70 membres : manufacturiers, marchands, fermiers et autres producteurs de denrées naturelles, délégués des chemins de fer et compagnies maritimes, banquiers et autres, représentent toutes les sections des Etats-Unis pour l'intérêt général de tous les facteurs engagés dans le commerce avec l'étranger. C'est un comité national pour la prospérité du commerce au delà des mers. Les membres ne représentent pas leurs propres compagnies mais le genre d'affaires auquel ils sont affiliés, sachant bien que le commerce avec l'étranger est un élément vital de prospérité touchant le bien être de tous les citoyens. Le Conseil n'est ni politique, ni rattaché à un parti. Sa fonction est de poursuivre des investigations et de conseiller, et il cherche à coopérer d'une manière efficace avec toutes les autres organisations encourageant une politique solide pour le commerce national avec l'étranger. Il y arrive, non seulement en convoquant des assemblées chaque année, mais encore par le moyen de conférences à Washington, et aussi par la publication de documents importants touchant tous les aspects du commerce avec l'étranger.

La publication des procédures des différents traités de commerce avec l'étranger constitue déjà une petite bibliothèque, mais importante au sujet du commerce au delà des mers.

En rapport avec la superintendance soigneuse de la législation, le Conseil s'occupe encore des occasions qui se présentent de développer le commerce avec l'étranger en y intéressant de nouveaux venus. A la sollicitation de différentes organisations industrielles et commerciales dans tous les pays, en 1919 par exemple, furent demandées plus de 30,000 copies de la brochure issue par le Conseil sous le titre de "Commençons à exporter". Cette investigation montra qu'il y avait un grand nombre de manufacturiers et de marchands américains désireux d'obtenir des renseignements détaillés concernant les possibilités de développer le commerce. L'intérêt montre par ces marchands et ces manufacturiers s'est manifesté depuis dans différentes associations commerciales avec la promesse que la prochaine assemblée sous les auspices du Conseil, la Septième Assemblée du Commerce National avec l'Etranger qui se réunira à San-Francisco du 12 au 15 mai 1920, sera une des plus considérables et une des plus fécondes en résultats dans l'histoire de cette organisation.

Il y a une grand nombre de choses notoires en rapport avec la prochaine assemblée de San-Francisco; la présence des conseillers en matières commerciales de toutes les nations sur le Pacifique ne sera pas la moins importante. Des invitations ont déjà été envoyées à ces gouvernements avec la demande que chacun d'eux prête son concours dans le choix d'une liste spéciale dans les différentes branches de commerce, d'hommes, dont l'expérience et le savoir faire en matières commerciales avec l'étranger, puissent être mis au

The Economic Resources of Russia

"Le Bosphore" reports the arrival at Constantinople of Mr. Vladimir Wengeroff, Russian commercial adviser, and one of the most prominent financiers and manufacturers in Russia. One of the companies which he represents is the Corporation of the Factories of Colomna (near Moscow) for the construction of machines and locomotives. The following interview is reported; Mr. Wengeroff stated :

"I am not concerned with politics but I am interested in industry on a large scale. I have no doubt that Russia, after her civil war, will again become very powerful owing to her great economic resources. Those who are able to foresee this future will derive great profit from that which they are able to do for Russia now.

"The economic situation of my country will have for foundation : firstly, the peasants who have become small land owners ; secondly, the intensive exploitation of the natural riches, which have remained intact up to the present.

"Therefore, at present, imports to Russia should be limited to goods that are prime necessities with the peasants, and for the exploitation of the natural riches, machines and agricultural implements, and tools and machines for industry. The exportation of luxuries for Russia ought to be absolutely forbidden.

"As regards the exchange, it goes without saying that the depreciation of the ruble and all Russian money is not due to economic cause. The situation will be straightened out when normal commercial relations are resumed. It should be noted that European financiers are even now buying Russian industrial shares."

CAUCASIAN ARMENIA

(From report of U. S. Trade Commissioner MEARS)

The territory of Caucasian Armenia in its ethnographic limits represents high country (the average height being 1500 m.) composed of several uplands separated from each other by ridges and massive hills of unimportant altitude. This territory occupies somewhat less than 64,000 square kilometres. In its centre rises a plateau with the lake of Sevan (1964 m.), of Alexandropol and Kars (average height 1600-1800 m.), and Lori (1400 m.). To the south the valley of Ararat (1000 m.), to the west the innumerable mountain ridges of the region of Sharuro Daralaguese and Karabash (2500-2600 m.), to the north and north-west the peripheral mountains gradually descending towards the valley of the river Kura.

The table land is entirely deprived of forests, only some low-trunk specimens growing in the mountainous zone in the north and west outskirts of Armenia. The inhabitants use cow dung for fuel. Caucasian Armenia is nearly entirely an agricultural country. Of the total population of 2,050,000 men (registered before the war) only 200,000 live in the towns of Erivan, Alexandropol, Kars, Shusha, Kagisman, Geruse, Alkhalkalaki, Novo-Bayazid, Nakhitchevan, Ordubad; part of the population is occupied with gardening and farming. Generally speaking, nearly 95% of the population are agriculturists.

The climate resembles that of the continent. The spring commences early. As early as late February or early March the fruit trees are in full bloom. At the end of May the grass dries up, and near the middle of June wheat and oats are ready to be harvested. Autumn commences at the end of October and continues till the middle of December. In winter there is very little snow, and this does not stay long. Winter as a rule is very dry, with frequent winds. Out of the 1000 hours of investigation, windy hours occurred 90% of July and 72% of the time in November.

Transportation Facilities

The Transcaucasian railroad has a branch from Tiflis via Alexandropol to Kars, and a supplementary railroad built during the general war from Kars to Sari-Kamish. Another line is from Alexandropol to Karakilisse on the main line to Poti and Batum via Tiflis. There are some other small railroads constructed during the war, which do not run regularly if at all, as they tap districts under Tartar and Kurdish occupations.

The condition of the rolling stock is bad and has rapidly been growing worse since the armistice. A large percentage of the rolling stock at present in use should be in the repair shop. Repairs, however, are difficult and sometimes impossible because of the lack of spare parts, machinery and small tools. The scarcity of locomotives has been a great handicap. For instance of the 98 locomotives under the control of the Armenian Government, less than a third of them are in serviceable or semi-serviceable condition.

When the Turks were pushing towards Erivan, locomotives and cars on Armenian soil were hurried up towards Tiflis, but in the meantime the Georgians declared their separation from the Caucasian Republic and seized all the rolling stock they had on their territory. In this way Georgia succeeded in securing a much larger proportion of locomotives and cars than would have fallen to its lot had there been an equitable division. Armenia was left with an insignificant number of locomotives and cars. Thus Georgia, both on account of its geographical position and on account of its control of the majority of the rolling stock, is the controlling factor in all matters of rail transportation. The old caravan route to Trebizond is now scarcely used because of unsafe travelling.

Agriculture and Stock Raising

The country's position and climate determine the character of its agriculture. Corn growing predominates in the uplands, cattle breeding on the mountain sides, gardening, wine growing, seri-culture, rice and cotton cultures in the valleys and in the plains of Ararat, where artificial irrigation is possible. The middle zone adapted to agriculture, and deprived of manure (the dung being burned up as fuel) is not very fertile, the average harvest giving three times the seed.

Armenia's principal wealth consists of mountainous pasturelands with their excellent vegetation. Cattle breeding in these alpine meadows is most primitive on account of the nomad Mohammedan tribes that in the summer bring the cattle from the hot plains of Tartaria to the Armenian uplands and prevent any rational culture in these places. Regular dairy farming is just beginning to develop in Bortchalo and Kars. But in the development of rational cattle breeding and milk production lies the future of the Armenian uplands. The territory of the pasture lands of Caucasian Armenia, that are in quality greatly superior to the alpine pastures of Switzerland, extends to about 3 millions dessiatins (hectares, circa), that is to say, occupies nearly 44% of the country's area.

About 6 millions heads of different breeds of cattle used to graze on these pastures before the war, 2 millions of them belonged to the nomads of neighboring Tartaria and Georgia. Thanks to the great quantity of cattle, Armenia used to export in abundance before the war dairy farm products such as cheese, slaughter house cattle, wool and skins. The richest part of Caucasian Armenia is the valley of Arax, which with artificial irrigation produces extraordinary, sweet grapes, splendid fruits and vegetables, as well as rice, cotton and corn. The area of irrigated land in the valley of Arax amounts to 250,000 dessiatins, about 10,000 dessiatins of which were occupied by vineyards and over 7,000 dessiatins by fruit gardening.

Cotton growing

The culture of cotton was known long ago in the province of Erivan and has reached almost perfection. It extended from there to other regions of the Caucasus.

Before the war the province of Erivan produced 600-800,000 poods (1 pood equals 15,384 kgs. or 36 English pounds; 1 ton is equal to 61 poods) of cotton. 20,000 poods on hand were exported to Moscow and Lodz. The culture of cotton could be increased by irrigating the deserted grounds that border the river Arax. The cultivation of these grounds was formerly prevented by the Russian Government, which used the waters of that river for the purpose of irrigating the Russian colonies of the Mugan plains.

Wine and Cognac

The province of Erivan is also an important centre for wine growing and wine producing. For the last years, grapes were exported in great quantity from Erivan to Georgia and to Russia. The wine of Erivan is known for its great percent of alcohol, amounting to 16. This region exported to Russia in 1913 about 150,000 hectolitres of wine of the total quantity of 1 million hectolitres of wine produced. A great quantity of wine was also exported from the part of the province of Elizabethpol which is situated in Armenia.

Besides the wine production the production of a very good Erivan cognac was taking great dimensions (very much in demand in Russia), and its production has every chance of development. Before the war Erivan used to export to Russia and abroad nearly 10,000 millions degrees (about 4 millions litres) of cognac. At the present time Armenia has a stock of old cognac of 2-21½ millions degrees. Besides cognac Erivan also produced spirits from grape remnants and fruit, especially from mulberries. In 1915 Erivan produced 16½ millions degrees of spirits.

Fruit Preserves

In connection with fruit growing and excellent quality of the fruit (especially peaches and apricots) in Erivan, the production and exportation to Russia of fruit preserves and marmelades was very greatly developed before the war. This branch of industry has every chance of prosperity especially as the country has the prospect of getting cheap materials in place of the expensive Russian sugar and tin.

Silk Industry

Seri culture is prospering in the valleys of the mountainous parts of Karabagh and Goghtan, and the product is given over for preparation to about twenty silk winding manufactories situated in this region, the yearly silk production in these parts amounts to 6,000—7,000 poods of raw silk and over 5,000 poods of silk remnants. The cocoons are partly exported for use in the manufacturing establishments of Nukna.

Generally speaking industry is very little advanced in Armenia. Besides the already mentioned branches of industry partly associated with agriculture Armenia possesses beer and mineral water distilleries and leather factories that for the most part only have local importance. Export products of agriculture and industry in Armenia are cotton, wine cognac, spirits of wine, rice, raw leather, skins, wool, products of cattle breeding, fresh and dried fruit, fruit conserves, beer, eggs, carpets, nuts, wood spunks, and barley.

Raw Materials go to Turkey

The following statement appeared in January in the "Service Bulletin", published by the Central European Corporation; it is taken from the report on conditions in the Near East given by the vice-president of the Corporation on a visit of survey in the Orient:

"The report states that raw materials of all kinds, including oil, wool, wheat, metals, hides and skins, coal, tobacco, salt, potash, soda, manganese, ore, flaxseed, linseed, sheepskins and some furs are constantly coming into Constantinople from Bulgaria, Rumania, Southern Russia, Caucasus and the Near East.

"These materials are accumulating in considerable quantities and buyers from all parts of the world are now in Constantinople making purchases or working out an exchange of raw materials for manufactured products. The French, English and Italian firms are particularly well represented and are securing a large portion of this business, although many of the larger American firms are doing an effective business.

"Living conditions in Constantinople are very expensive—even more so than in New York, for there is a premium on the Turkish Lira on account of the demand for raw materials. One Turkish lira is worth $1.10 at present and prices are especially high. The cost of living in Constantinople is indicated by the fact that an ordinary breakfast consisting of tea, a small portion of bread, two eggs, costs approximately $1.10, and an ordinary luncheon costs approximately $2.75. Two boiled eggs, for instance, are worth 55 cents.

"With the new developments in Russia the report states that it is believed there will be larger quantities of raw materials available, and that considerable quantities will come from the Caucasus and even Turkestan.

"The American Consular and Commercial Service in Constantinople is rendering efficient service and doing everything in its power to assist American firms in meeting the opportunities which are presented.

"The conviction is expressed in the report that there is a very large opportunity for trade development through Constantinople, as it is one of the few centres of the world in which raw materials are accumulating and which at the same time is a natural distributing centre for a very wide reach of territory.

"On the basis of this report, the Central European Corporation is making arrangements to forward to Constantinople considerable quantities of American manufactured articles, and it is making an effort to secure its own warehouse facilities so that American firms desiring to consign goods to Constantinople will be able to take advantage of insurance and will be protected in the exchange of manufactured goods for raw materials."

Persian Railway Schemes

("The Times" London)

THE Persian Government has granted an option to a powerful British syndicate for the survey of a railway from the present rail-head of the Mesopotamian lines at Kuretu, near Kasr-i-Shirin, via Kermanshah, Hamadan, and Kasvin to Teheran, with a branch line from Kasvin to Enzeli on the Caspian.

On completion of the survey the Persian Government will have the right either to build the railway itself by a system of loans from the syndicate, or to give the syndicate

The survey will be begun immediately. The line, presumably, will be of metre gauge in continuation of the existing metre gauge railway from Baghdad to the Persian frontier. The track will probably closely follow the road built by the Royal Engineers to Hamadan, the alignment of which was made by the Russians at an earlier period of the war. From Hamadan the line will follow the existing road to Kasvin-Teheran and Kasvin-Enzeli. There are three steep passes for the line to be carried over—Pai-tak, Asadabad, and Aveh.

It is understood that the construction of a railway from Teheran to Meshed is contemplated later.

R.N. have been lent to Persia to advise in naval matters. It is clearly useless to make strategic plans for the defence of the northern frontiers by land if the Caspian gate is left open.

Lieutenant-Colonel Smythe (Cheshire Regiment) and three other British officers have gone to Tabriz for the organization of the local forces owing to the urgency of the situation there. This in advance of the larger measures to be decided by the Commission now sitting.

L'effort économique en Europe

Un des plus gros industriels américains, M. Samuel M. Vaucrain, président de la Baldwin Locomotive Works, au retour d'un voyage prolongé en France, a fait à la New York Tribune des déclarations sur la situation économique en Europe dont nous détachons les suivantes :

“Tous les pays d'Europe veulent sortir de la situation actuelle et ils font des grands efforts pour leur relèvement économique. Par un tel travail énergique il y a certitude du succès. Quelques uns ont fait plus de progrès dans leur propre reconstitution en un an que les Etats du sud n'en avaient fait en vingt ans après la guerre civile en Amérique.

“Il est grand temps que l'Amérique se rende compte de la situation. Nous devrions être capables d'accorder de larges crédits industriels; nous commençons à le faire en acceptant des effets à longue échéance et nous arrivons à escompter une partie de ces effets dans nos banques, jusqu'ici peu habituées à ces opérations. Au début nous nous bornions à offrir des crédits de courte durée tandis que maintenant nous sommes disposés à faire des crédits individuels jusqu'à cinq ans. Il serait infiniment préférable au

International Economic Conference

Representative men of America, Great Britain, Holland, Switzerland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden have sent to their respective countries, to the Reparation Commission, and to the United States Chamber of Commerce a joint appeal for an international economic conference for the purpose of examining the situation in Europe, and "to recommend upon the basis of authentic information what action in the various countries is advisable among the peoples interested in reviving and maintaining international commerce."

The idea of this conference is said to have originated in the European neutral countries and the prospect is that it will be held very soon, perhaps in The Hague. Meanwhile, J. W. Alexander, the new Secretary of Commerce in the United States, has taken the position that any undertaking of the reconstruction of Europe must recognize the necessity of carefully protecting American interests. He declared that the only solution of the credit problem is the sale of European securities to American investors, and that the securities must be unquestionable. He declared further that these credits must be utilized for increasing essential production in European countries, and that "this will make security for future credits even more secure, and will pave the way for steady investment of American capital in foreign countries."

Commercial Activity

Since the Greek occupation of Smyrna district in the summer of 1919 a political impasse has restricted the hinterland and commercial activity has been correspondingly affected.

For the year ending January, 1920, there were exported 84,400 tons of goods of a total value of $32,000,000, comprising the following items:

	Tons
Carpets	816
Fruits, dried	40,810
Opium	260
Skins	820
Tobacco	11,194
Valonea	14,500
Miscellaneous	16,000
	84,400

The various countries shared as follows in the exports, amounts being given in tons: England, 42,282; U. S. America, 12,266; Italy, 4,076; France, 3,043; other countries, 22,733. England ranks first for most of the items exported; America ranks first for tobacco, 3,303 tons, and for opium, 160 tons. Japan is making a much larger demand on the opium market in Asia Minor than before the war, which fact is believed to be due to anticipation of restrictions by the Peace Conference both on the cultivation of the poppy and export of opium from the various producing regions, and the desire to accumulate a reserve stock.

The following is the table of imports at the port of Smyrna for the year ending January, 1920.

Country	Amount in tons	Value
U. S. America	17,053	$ 3,039,700
England	13,006	12,680,000
Japan	10,542	3,879,400
Italy	7,021	4,492,400
Greece	7,703	3,630,000
France	1,667	1,000,000
Other countries	7,160	2,000,000
	64,152	$ 30,721,500

Italy's place as second in value of imports is due to the fact that she has absorbed the greater part of the commerce of the former empire of Austria-Hungary and of Germany.

Foreign Commerce Corporation of America.

La fondation de la "Foreign Commerce Corporation of America" (Compagnie américaine du Commerce étranger) a été annoncée au public le 31 Décembre dernier. Cette société commerciale a été formée conformément aux lois de l'état de New-York ; ses actions ont une valeur nominale de $ 1.000. La direction en est confiée à Mr. Grayson M. P. Murphy, ancien vice-président de la "Guaranty Trust Company" de New-York.

Sauf M. Murphy, les membres fondateurs de cette compagnie font tous partie de la maison J. P. Morgan & Co., ce sont: MM. J. P. Morgan, H. P. Davison, Thomas W. Lamont et E. R. Stettinius. Ce dernier a été nommé président du conseil d'administration de la société.

Organisée dans le but de faire du commerce avec tous les pays étrangers, la "Foreign Commerce Corporation" n'est en aucun sens une entreprise financière, mais il est généralement admis que ses affaires seront fort probablement traitées dans des conditions de crédit très favorables à la clientèle étrangère.

Le directeur de la nouvelle compagnie et le président de son conseil d'administration ont tous deux beaucoup d'expérience dans la conduite des grandes affaires. Avant de remplir ses fonctions actuelles dans la maison J. P. Morgan & Co., Mr. Stettinius, en qualité de chef du service commercial étranger, eut à s'occuper de la plupart des achats faits par les Alliés aux Etats-Unis, au cours des premières années de la guerre. Mr. Murphy, de son côté, a été chef d'une grande maison d'exportation.

La fondation de cette corporation commerciale suit de près la création de la "Foreign Finance Corporation," société formée également par la Ban-

Tea Culture in Georgia

The cultivation of the tea shrub, as a branch of industry, was first started in Georgia about twenty years ago. It is principally confined to the Batoum district, but it is also carried on in the Koutais and Soukhom districts. The local tea shrub grows to a height of more than 70 centimetres (27 inches). The result of the annual tea-picking in Georgia amounts to about 2,000,000 lbs, which is dealt with in seven ware-houses. The cultivation of the tea plant is slowly but steadily growing.

It is true that this cultivation is still in the first phase of its development in Georgia, but as it is encouraged by the Government, it may be expected within a reasonable time to produce sufficient for the needs of the country, and probably for the whole of Transcaucasia. This result will be greatly assisted by the climate of the Black Sea coast, and the existence of a large area of unexploited red and yellow earth on which the cultivation of tea could be carried on very successfully.

American Automobiles in India

Official figures of imports of American motor cars to India show that they are still increasing. Last month, 1,264 cars were imported into India, whereof 1,140 were American and only one hundred British.

During the past ten months India imported 6080 cars, 5,704 being American and only 300 British.

Chrome Ore Deposits in Asia Minor.

(From Report of Consul-General
G. BIE RAVNDAL.)

(Concluded from February number.)

"At one time the working of the chrome-ore deposits of the Smyrna Province was carried on extensively, and proved to be highly remunerative. For a long period this province supplied almost the entire requirements of the world in this mineral. The Smyrna ore contains from 40 to 55 per cent. chromic oxide. The annual production in chrome ore of the Vilayet of Smyrna varied between 7,000 and 15,000 tons. If the mines were properly and economically worked they might be made to produce from 50,000 to 60,000 tons per annum; but under present conditions it would not be possible to transport more than 15,000 or 20,000 tons. The lack of transport facilities within this province also compelled mine owners to put a limit to their activity, as the charges incurred would not allow them to compete with ores of New Caledonia and Rhodesia. Construction of light railways may offer facilities for future development. In this province twenty research permits were issued in 1912. Many holders of permits expect to sell them, but they generally ask exorbitant prices. In spite of the inactivity now reigning, and which may continue to reign in this branch of industry for a certain time in consequence of the high cost of labour and other difficulties, it is almost sure that very important mining operations will be undertaken in this province in the near future,

"Kemikli Mine.— This chrome mine is situated in the Kaza of Makri (Sanjak of Menteche), at a distance of nine miles from the sea and twelve miles from the town of Makri. It consists of two distinct deposits — the Kesser-Ali and the Tumbachi. The Kesser-Ali deposit is formed of two pear-shaped masses lying in inverse directions; the grade is 48 to 50 per cent. This deposit is located at the top of a hill; the ores extracted are conveyed to the Kizil-Dere River by shoots and are transported in carts to the washing plant at Imbachi. The other deposit of this mine consists in a vein from 6 to 13 feet thick, of vertical direction, and of a grade of 42 to 45 per cent. The work is carried on by shafts. Ore obtained at this mine is transported by caravans to Ichalish-Iskelessi, a small pier, whence it is taken by sailing boats to Mem-Pacha, on the opposite shore, to be shipped.

"Katrandjik Mine.— This mine, situated near the seashore, consists in weak seams containing ore graded 40 to 42 per cent. Thus far it has not proved to be of importance. The owner of the mine is Ragheb Pasha. The present stock available is 700 to 1,000 tons.

"Kodjek Ali Pasha Mine.— The mine is situated in the interior of Kodjek, Kaza of Yuksek-Koumou, at a distance of fifty to sixty-two miles from the sea. It consists of seams 9 to 10 feet thick, the grade of the ore being 45 to 50 per cent. and the inclination 45 deg. A great quantity of ore is available from this mine, which has not been worked for 20 years.

"The Hadji Nicola Mines.— The grade of the ore is from 40 to 48 per cent., and the work is carried on by quarrying as well as underground systems.

"Patterson Mines.— These are from four to twelve miles distant from the sea, and consist of very rich seams graded 40 to 52 per cent.

"Hadji Mehmed Mine.— This mine is quite near the locality of Makri, at a small distance from the sea. It consists of seams 6 to 7 feet thick with an inclination of 45 deg., and a grade of 46 to 50 per cent. It is not possible to give an idea of the real production of this mine.

"Besides the above - mentioned mines, there are other less important ones belonging to French, Greek, or Turkish firms. No definite opinion can be expressed as to their real value since they have been worked in the past with very primitive means. The grade of the ore obtained is from 42 to 48 per cent. Research works in these localities can be effected with the proprietors' consent.

"In the neighbourhood of Mersia, near the village Elvanli, there are several mines of chrome which contain 50 to 51 per cent. of chromic oxide. As regards transport facilities, these mines are well situated. The ore is taken by mules to Toumouk, near Mersina, where there is a small pier to facilitate direct loading on steamers. The average annual production of these mines can be estimated at 1,000 tons. This ore was exported to France and Germany. The other chrome mines of this province are at present of no importance, as they have been only superficially explored. The lack of a port, of labour, and of roads are the three stumbling blocks to the further development of the chrome deposits in this province. The chrome resources of the province of Konia appear inadequate to allow further development. The average annual output of the chrome mine situated near Adalia is about 1,000 tons.

Mining Methods.

"In general, chrome is extracted by the quarrying system; but galleries are resorted to, as well as inclined and vertical shafts, either to follow the eruptive vein or to attack the mass of rock beneath the surface stratum when the latter has been impoverished below the limit of profitable production. The usual method of extracting the mineral is the most primitive; the tools used are limited to the pick and shovel, and when it is necessary to remove hard rock, which may be encountered in the drifts, the work is done with the hand drill and sledge hammer, while the blasting is done with ordinary coarse black gunpowder. There are no mechanical or compressed-air drills in use in any part of Asia Minor.

"The only transport available, in general, from the mines to the seashore or the railroad station is that afforded by camels, mules, or donkeys. No properly built roads are maintained which are available for the beasts of burden; they must carry their loads over the footpaths and tracks which meander down the mountain sides, and practically double the distance to be traversed. It would not be a difficult matter to link up all the best mines by a common aerial cableway, like the one at Dagh Ardi. This would very greatly simplify matters and be of enormous advantage from every point of view; it would probably reduce the cost of transport by 70 to 75 per cent. If an aerial ropeway were established it would be an easy matter to extend it later on to other valuable mines, further inland, which have never yet been worked because the cost of transport exceeds the value of the ore.

"Makri, from whence most of the ore is shipped, is safe and protected as a port; but the greater part of the water is shallow, and it is only in the south-west part of the bay of Makri that the depth offers a good anchorage. Shipments are, therefore, made on small lighters carrying from 10 to 15 tons, which lighters have to be towed by a steamer from the port of Makri to the place of shipment at Ikindjik, which is only an open roadstead.

"Available stocks at Makri in July, 1919, were estimated at 20,000 tons. The ore already extracted, but still at the mines, could not be transported to the shipping point and was therefore not available. At Denizli the ready ore was (same date) estimated at 500 to 800 tons. This ore grades 40 per cent. Although the railroad to Smyrna from the Denizli district is in operation, it would be very difficult and costly to transport the ore from Denizli to Smyrna at present, owing to freight charges, limited car space, and high cost of labour.

"During the war no chrome mines were worked. The stocks on hand consist of ore extracted before the war. Mine owners say that it is impossible to commence the extraction of new ore before the beginning of the year 1920, owing to high wages, the lack of workmen, poor transportation, and the lack of tools. Most of the tools were commandeered by the Turkish Army. The total of chrome ore in Turkey was estimated in mid-July to amount to about 35,000 tons."

There are two milliards of the new dinar notes to replace the eight milliards of krone notes in circulation, but there are 1,000-dinar notes in the new issue. They have the inscription in French on one side, and in Serb, Croat and Slovene on the other, "Ministere de Finance du royaume des Serbes, Croates et Slovenes", and the signature of Dr. Nivitchitch, former Minister of Finance. L'Economiste d'Orient

We acknowledge receipt for our files of the early numbers of "L'Economiste d'Orient", a weekly which made its first appearance at Constantinople on February 12th. The paper is a native publication. It pleads for a transfer of emphasis from the militaristic, socialistic and political concerns of the state to the economic development of the country, and it promises its support to this end.

At the same time it declares as a special aim to acquaint the Turks and other nations with each other in helping to promote direct and larger trade relations.

Automobile Market in Syria

(From report of Consul J. B. Jackson)

Before the war there were but half a dozen automobiles and lorries in the Aleppo district, but there are now several hundred, all of which have been in the use of the military authorities. For the greater part they consist of lorries of two and three tons' capacity, light trucks and passenger cars — the latter mostly American, with a sprinkling of German cars taken by the British army upon its occupation of Syria.

Prior to 1914 this district and adjacent territory contained some two millions of people, but the population has probably decreased, for obvious reasons. There must be something like one and three-quarters millions still, among whom a great many are financially able to support the expeuse of an automobile. There is also a tendency towards self-reliance that did not previously exist, and which will eventually induce many to act as their own chauffeurs, whereas formerly it was considered belittling for a person of means to occupy himself with any kind of manual labor similar to that of running his own car.

On the other hand there are many capable chauffeurs and mechanics among the troops, from whom local inhabitants have learned driving and engineering to the extent that this void will disappear rapidly. Already a number of inhabitants are contemplating the purchase of passenger cars and roadsters, and several have the idea of bringing in trucks for local freight service.

There being no railway connections between Aleppo, Killis, Aintab, Marash, Urfa, Antioch, and Alexandretta, there is soon bound to be a demand for motor freight and passenger service. On previous occasions this matter was studied by Aleppo business men, but the difficulties seemed insurmountable and the question was dropped. Conditions have changed since then, and it is likely that the affair will have more serious attention in the future. The only means of passenger conveyance being by horse and carriage, and that of freight transportation by camel and on mule and horseback, it is evident that more modern methods must soon supercede. The entire country is essentially agricultural, which will produce another strong demand for motor power in connection with plowing, threshing, &c.

The more moderate-priced cars will be in demand, as the public highways and city streets are not in a condition to lend themselves to heavy vehicles. There are no governmental restrictions at present

The commission houses of the district will be the most probable buyers or importers, there being but one or two other establishments that interest themselves in machinery of any sort. Correspondence with such firms should preferably be in French. Printed literature should be forwarded with price lists and discounts should be mentioned. It is recommended that sales be made on a cash basis for the moment, or a part-cash payment with order and balance against documents sent to banks. Prices should be quoted c. i. f. There has been a steady reduction in the yield of the vineyards since the war. Owing to the heavy emigration from the coast and also to the want of attention to the vineyards as a whole during the course of the war, their bearing powers have been much reduced, and it more than probable that during the course of the next few years the

The fig orchards, on the whole, were carefully cultivated during the war and a good proportion of the crop was consumed locally in the districts of production and in the immediate neighbourhood.

With regard to sultanas, the United States, since the development of the Californian industry, have drawn on the average 1500-2000 tons annually.

As regards figs, the United States have always been the largest buyers of this fruit and on an average have absorbed about 40% to 45% of the production.

Tobacco in Turkey

("L'Economiste d'Orient")

Without doubt one of the richest agricultural products of Turkey is tobacco. The best tobacco was furnished by the region of Xanthi and Haskovo and Rumelia. Tobacco varies in quality, odor, color, and taste according to the soil of the region of production.

Before the war Smyrna, Samsoun, and Ismidt produced yearly 20-30 millions of kilos of tobacco. Smyrna alone furnished from 8-10 millions of the two qualities known as "Kalib" and "Basma", 3-3½ millions of the former grade, and the remainder of the latter. Bales of "basma" contain from 15-20 kilos each, while bales of "kalib" contain from 50-60 kilos.

The basma is divided into five qualities, which, with their approximate pre-war values, are as follows: "extra", 70-80 piasters the kilo; "basma", 35 piasters; "sira pastal", 25 pias.; "ecartés", 15 pias.; "tonga", 10 pias.

The kalib has four qualities, and their pre-war values, respectively, were as follows: "kabibs", 30 pias. the kilo; "kalab kalib", 20 pias.; "orta mal", 15 pias.; and "tonga", 10 pias.

Samsoun produced about 15-18 millions of kilos annually, shared by the various surrounding districts as follows: Samsoun, 4 millions, Baffra and Ala Tcham, 4 millions, Sinope, 1½-2 millions, Tash-ova, Erba and Zileh, 6-7 millions. There are six grades of tobacco from this region, and their prices before the war are given as, "extra", 60 pias. the kilo; "indje bitchak", 45 pias.; "orta", 35 pias.; "enghin", 25 pias.; "beladik", 20 pias.; and "guermehs", 10 pias. Among the above the tobacco from Samsoun and Baffra are the most sought in the market.

Ismidt, with Duztche, Pendik, and Ovadjik, produce 2-3 millions of kilos annually. It is a very strong tobacco and therefore cheaper. The same classification exists for the tobacco of Ismidt as for that of Samsoun.

During the war the production in all districts diminished, and from various causes prices rose to 180-190 piastres the kilo.

Exposition nationale d'automobiles en Amérique

Innovations limitées en grande partie aux moteurs et aux châssis. Voitures couvertes de plus en plus populaires. Record de la production des voitures pour voyageurs et des camions en 1919.

La 20ième exposition nationale d'automobiles eut lieu à New-York du 4 au 10 janvier. Malgré la faible production pendant les trois premiers mois de 1919 alors que l'industrie était pratiquement soumise aux mesures de guerre, les fabricants d'automobiles réussirent à surpasser tous les records précédents avec une production totale de 1.891.929 voitures et camions. En 1917 la production fut de 1.869.000 voitures et camions, la plus forte connue avant 1919.

Les innovations apportées aux modèles de 1920 seront appréciées par les chauffeurs et par ceux qui ont des notions suffisantes de mécanique pour comprendre combien des modifications, même de peu d'importance, réduisent le poids, facilitent le maniement, diminuent le gaspillage de combustible et rendent le maximum de vitesse. Une attention toute spéciale a été donnée dans le but d'augmenter le confort.

Pour la première fois dans l'histoire des expositions commerciales, les automobiles pour voyageurs et les camions ont été exposés la même semaine. L'exposition des voitures pour voyageurs comprenait plusieurs modèles de quatre-vingt-quatre marques différentes d'automobiles ; celle des voitures commerciales et camions comprenait 69 marques différentes. Le fait que l'exposition commerciale d'automobiles eut lieu en même temps que celle des voitures et des différentes espèces de camions, montre les progrès rapides accomplis dans cette branche d'industrie pendant ces dernières années.

D'après M. Charles Clifton, président de la Chambre de Commerce pour les automobiles, le camion-automobile a déjà envahi plus de 400 différents métiers ; sa valeur est si généralement reconnue qu'il n'est exclu d'aucun commerce et d'aucune industrie.

Les accessoires ne furent pas la chose la moins intéressante de l'Exposition. Leur nombre s'est constamment accru et ajouté beaucoup au rendement de l'automobile et à son élégance. Ces accessoires comprennent tout ce qu'on peut imaginer : plaques brevetées, lanternes, cornes d'appel, dispositifs ingénieux pour bagages, capotes, pneus et roues et étaient la propriété de plus de 300 exposants.

Un trait distinctif est l'attention donnée aux accessoires qui facilitent le maniement du nouveau véhicule. Une grande attention a été donnée aux infimes détails des appareils automatiques.

Trois classes de fabricants de roues—bois, fil de métal, acier—étaient représentées par les plusieurs nouveaux modèles et par des perfectionnements apportés aux anciens systèmes. L'emploi de roues en aluminium pour les camions automobiles est une des innovations intéressantes de ces dernières années. Dans l'intervalle de ces douze derniers mois ce nouveau mode de construction a fait des progrès considérables. On annonce que ce nouveau genre de roues offre de grands avantages en réduisant le poids, réalisant ainsi des économies de combustible et diminuant les réparations et l'usure des pneus.

Les automobiles exposés devaient répondre aux moyens de toutes les bourses aussi bien qu'à tous les goûts et à toutes les fantasies. Les prix variaient de $715 à plus de $14000, bien que la voiture américaine la moins chère et la plus connue ne fût pas exposée. Selon toute apparence les automobiles couverts, les "sedans" et les "broughams" seront les modèles les plus populaires de 1920.

Bien qu'il y eût une grande variété de moteurs du type quatre-cylindres, le moteur six-cylindres prédominait. Une estimation intéressante récemment faite par l'un des premiers fabricants de moteurs six-cylindres, nous montre que le 55.8% des automobiles américains sont du type six-cylindres. La popularité de ce moteur a été en croissante pendant ces quelques dernières années. En 1918, pour la première fois ce moteur surpassait tous les autres types avec un total de 51.7%. En 1919 il monta à 53.2% et les modèles de 1920 ont encore augmenté ce pourcentage de plus de 2.

Plus de 300 camions exposés se rangent du plus petit véhicule pour livraison aux camions à une demi-tonne de capacité ou même aux camions mons-trueux qui transportent une charge de quinze tonnes. La guerre a donné une impulsion considérable à l'industrie des camions et les résultats en sont encore visibles. Les fabricants de camions-automobiles montrent un intérêt plus grand au confort du conducteur.

Le développement remarquable de l'industrie des camions-automobiles dans les neuf dernières années est montré immédiatement par un simple coup d'œil au table au suivant :

	Production	Valeur.
1911	— 10,655	$ 22,292,321
1917	— 128,157	» 220,982,668
1918	— 227,250	» 434,168,992
1919	— 305,142	» 408,311,585

Le prix moyen d'un camion-automobile en 1919 a été de $1,338,00.

Il est à remarquer parmi les nouveaux développements dans le transport par routes l'usage de wagons à remorque (trailers) qui date seulement d'une douzaine d'années. Actuellement il y a plus de 75 fabriques de wagons à remorque aux Etats-Unis et une grande quantité de wagons à remorque est exporté à l'étranger. Pendant les années 1917-18 le Ministère de la Guerre a acheté 30.000 wagons à remorque et envoyé 5.500 au corps d'armée américain en France. Un grand nombre de ceux-ci étaient des wagons à remorque cuisines ou cuisines roulantes.

La valeur de la production des automobiles aux Etats-Unis est estimée à $1.807.594.580. Les fabricants prévoient une production de 2.250.000 automobiles pour voyageurs pour 1920 et de 400.000 camions. L'accomplissement de ceci dépend principalement des matériaux particulièrement pour les voitures couvertes pour lesquelles la demande s'accroît terriblement.

Plus de 7.000.000 d'automobiles ont été enregistrés par leurs propriétaires dans le 48 états du pays à la fin de 1919. Ceci représenté un accroissement de près d'un million en une année; la statistique de 1918 indiquait 6.146.617 comprenant 5.852.726 voitures pour voyageurs et 293.891 camions. L'importance de l'accroissement du nombre des automobiles dans ces cinq dernières années est montrée par leur recensement en 1914 se montant à 1.754.570. New-York continue d'être à la tête de tous les autres états avec un total de 560.811 automobiles enregistrés au 1er déc. 1919. Pendant ces deux dernières années le plus grand pourcentage d'accroissement a été dans les districts agricoles.

settled parts of Transcaucasia the peasants may be seen to-day plowing with crooked sticks. All their implements are most primitive. There is some improved agricultural machinery used in North Caucasus, most of which came from Germany and the United States, but no statistics are available to show the amount imported from the latter country.

The various agricultural societies are doing good work in introducing modern agricultural implements and in keeping small stocks in their stores, such as iron shovels, forks, hand mills for grinding corn, pulverizing, etc. They are also introducing chemical fertilizers and disinfectants.

American manufacturers of machinery must bear in mind that machinery, to suit local requirements, should be extra strong and not complicated. They should insist that agents sell machinery adapted to the work for which it is purchased. A case was drawn to the attention of the American consulate in Batum in which a small steam shovel, used in the United States for light ditch work, was sold for digging out iron ore. The consequence was a broken shovel and the seriously damaged reputation of the manufacturer, who in this instance was not informed by his agent of the nature of the work that the machine would be required to perform. This incident is of special interest, because the market for steam shovels in the Caucasus is bound to become of great importance, and manufacturers must assure themselves that agents understand the business sufficiently to see that their customers get the size and type of shovel suitable for the work required.

L'exposition internationale de l'Industrie à New York

"L'Exportateur Américain"

Une exposition industrielle internationale vient d'être inaugurée au "Grand Central Palace," de New-York dans le but de faire connaître au public les marchandises fabriquées en Amérique et d'en activer la vente, tant aux Etats-Unis qu'à l'étranger. Cette exposition, qui doit être permanente, comprend les sections suivantes : Machinerie et Industries Minières, Matériaux et Machines à l'usage des Municipalités, Tracteurs et Machines Agricoles, Quincaillerie et Articles de Ménage, et Fournitures Industrielles.

La ville de New-York, qui est le centre de commerce d'importation et d'exportation des Etats-Unis, possède déjà un grand nombre de salles de réunion et de clubs commerciaux où les acheteurs étrangers peuvent se rencontrer et traiter leurs affaires avec les fabricants américains ; toutes les grandes manufactures du pays y ont des succursales ou des représentants. Toutefois, avant l'ouverture de l'exposition internationale, il n'y avait pas à New-York de marché central ou de magasin de vente où tous les produits fabriqués aux Etats-Unis soient groupés sous un même toit et où les acheteurs, tant américains qu'étrangers, puissent entrer en relations immédiates avec les producteurs. L'exposition des industries répond donc à un réel besoin : grouper et mettre en vente dans un même local toutes les marchandises américaines.

L'exposition des matériaux et machines à l'usage des municipalités est particulièrement intéressante. On y trouve tout ce qui peut être nécessaire au développement des villes, des bourgades ou des hameaux américains et aux travaux de reconstruction des Professor A. T. Clay, of Yale University, has arrived at Bagdad and expects to visit Babylon, Nippur, Ninevah and other places of interest with a view of excavating later on if conditions seem favorable.

The old British Club which was in existence in Bagdad before the war is being reorganized and a new British Club has been organized taking over the property and assets of the old club.

The Military Governor, Lieut-Colonel Balfour, called a meeting yesterday of the representatives of pump and engine manufacturers to discuss means of securing larger importation of pumps and oil engines for irrigation purposes. The Government desires to encourage the cultivation of larger areas and especially new lands hitherto uncultivated. It was suggested that in cases where new engines and pumps were installed for the purpose of cultivating new land the taxes be waived for three crops. There are at present about 450 oil engines and pumps in use for irrigation purposes in this district.

Implements Enter Greece Free

The Greek legation in Washington announces that a royal decree extends the exemption of agricultural implements imported into Greece from all import and other taxes until December 31, 1920. All duties and charges on agricultural implements were first remitted in October, 1915. This action is made necessary by the acute demand for foodstuffs for domestic and export markets.

The World's Cotton Supply

(From "The World's Markets")

Following reports of restrictions upon the imports of cotton into England and a break in the American stock markets, there was some falling off in the values of cotton in the speculative exchanges. This did not bring a very marked change in first hands, where values held relatively steady. About the middle of February the total European stocks of cotton were 1,744,000 bales, compared with 795,000 bales a year ago, and substantially the same amount in 1918. Of this volume, Great Britain held 1,276,000 bales.

At the same period the world's visible supply was 6,263,653 bales, compared with 5,277,000 a year ago, and 4,688,000 two years ago. Of this amount, 4,733,553 bales were made up of American cotton. American consumption, as shown by the latest returns of the Census Bureau, showed a gain over last year or the year before, and trade is so good that every possible effort is being made to keep mills employed.

The sustained high prices for cotton at this time are of importance in encouraging the planting of at least as large an acreage as a year ago, and the planting season in the American belt is about at hand. The same conditions of restricted labor supply prevailing during the war are still to be reckoned with in any estimate of probable yield. The world needs a large crop, as for five years there has been a serious shortage. To make up this deficiency is a most difficult thing until more favorable weather conditions come about.

Constant encouragement is being given to the development of new planting sections by Great Britain, but at best this must be slow. In the meantime, the world's consumption will increase if the means can be found for restoring production. That a large measure of progress has been made in Europe is evident from the increasing exports of American.

Cotton Enriches Egypt

Egypt is "bursting with wealth" accumulated from cotton, says a correspondent of the "Daily Express" in Cairo.

"Illiterate natives living in mud huts have made £20,000 out of cotton deals," he continues. "Some have made £100,000. They are buying land at inflated prices and paying off mortgages which were regarded as family heirlooms. One British official says that the country has made at least £100,000,000. Naturally, there is an influx of new millionaires in Cairo, with a huge demand for automobiles, jewelry, new houses and all kinds of luxuries, but in the provinces many of the newly rich have not changed their standard of living at all."

Prospects in Mesopotamia

The report of the Civil Commissioner, of Baghdad, to the Secretary of State for India contains the following:

Good rains have at length fallen in Mesopotamia with heavy snow in parts of Mosul Vilayet and even near Abu Kemal [on the Euphrates]. It has fallen too late for spring sowings in some places, but has saved most of the crops.

There is no change in the situation on the Upper Euphrates. The route from Aleppo to Baghdad is insecure and all through traffic has ceased. Elsewhere in Mesopotamia all is quiet. Tobacco cultivators in Kurdistan anticipate an unusually good crop and grain prices are lower than they have been since 1915. Municipal councils are developing into useful public bodies.

The completion of the Basra-Baghdad line threatens to deprive towns on the Tigris of their ancient profits and a movement is on foot to induce the Government to retain the Kut-Baghdad Railway, which has brought such prosperity to Kut and to the district on the Hai.

New York Market

(From Guaranty Trust Company)

COFFEE: Demand for spot coffees continues moderate. On March 17, Rio 7s closed at 15 cents, and Santos 4s remained unchanged at 24 and 24½ cents. Nominal quotations for mild grades are: Maracaibo, 19½ and 24 cents; washed, 25 and 26½ cents; Bogota, common, 17 and 19 cents; fancy, 27 and 27¼ cents; Bucaramanga, 22 and 24¾ cents; washed, 25½ and 26½ cents; Costa Rica, common, 16½ and 17½ cents; prime to choice, 27 and 27½ cents.

SUGAR: The annual report of the American Sugar Refining Company shows that consumption of sugar in the United States during 1919 approximated 4,000,000 tons, or 500,000 tons more than in 1918 and 200,000 tons more than in the previous record year of 1915. Half of the amount used here came from Cuba. Spot quotations on March 23 were: Cuban, 12.79 cents; Porto Rico, 12.25 cents.

HIDES: Prices remain unchanged, but importers are inclined to seek higher levels. Bogotas and Orinocos are quoted at 40 cents; Central Americas at 39 cents.

GOAT SKINS: The tone of the market is quiet. Quotations remain unchanged with Brazils, first selection, at $2.50; Oaxaca, first selection, $1.50; and Payta, $1.00.

COTTON: The market has been subjected to severe influences during the last week. Under reports of heavy foreign selling and that the Senate would finally do something with the Peace Treaty, March cotton sold up to 40 cents on the twelfth. A sharp recoil followed the reports of a revolution in Germany, but when the futility of the coup was recognized on March 16, heavy buying by Liverpool sent the price for March cotton up to 40.10 cents, and later it touched 43.18 cts. Weather improving and new crop lower.

PERSONALIA

The Hon. Evan E. Young, in the Levant on appointment as Consul General at Odessa, has been appointed American High Commissioner to the new Baltic states, with residence at Riga. Mr. Young has occupied various consulates in the Near East, and became Consul General at Halifax in 1913. In 1909 he was Chief of the Division of Near Eastern Affairs, in 1911 Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Ecuador, and in 1912 Foreign Trade Adviser. Mr. Young has already left Constantinople for his new post. The American Chamber of Commerce for the Levant held itself fortunate in securing Mr. Young as a Director-at-Large on his return to the Near East in January of this year and regrets his removal to more distant territory, but the Chamber is in hearty sympathy with the well-deserved appointment.

J. S. Kennedy, representative of the Gillette Safety Razor Company, arrived in Constantinople on March 22, coming from the west via Athens, where he had spent some weeks. The Gillette firm is contemplating the establishment of a center for the Levant.

Edward H. Beckert, Chief Engineer of the Standard Oil Co. in the Near East, has returned to Constantinople from America, and is engaged on the new construction works of the Company here.

The Corn Products Refining Company of America has resumed active representation in the Near East. Mr. Thomas Griffiths, Manager, has his bureau with Messrs. J. W. Whittall & Co. in Dilsiz Zadeh Han, Stamboul.

J. Wylie Brown, of Brown, Welles, & Co., Inc., has come to Constantinople to establish a center in our city; the New York office is at 61 Broadway. The firm is engaged in general import and export and in insurance business. Mr. Welles remains in New York as manager of the New York house. Mr. Brown has already had several years' experience in the Levant and was at one time Executive Secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce for the Levant. Mr. Fellows, another member of the firm, will also be located in Constantinople; he has had many years experience in insurance, as well as general business. With all American backing and representation of standard American products the firm is qualified to a high standard in business affairs for which it is preparing in the Near East.

Mufti-Zadé Zia Bey, representative of P. N. Gray & Co., Inc., of New York, has returned to Constantinople and will represent the firm in this district.

Major Davis G. Arnold, Managing Director of the Near East Relief, left the first of the month for America, where he will resume his law practice at Providence, Rhode Island. Major

Arnold was engaged in "war work" in Europe for more than two years. He came to France with the 27th Division. An injury to his back caused him to be invalided home, but he recovered and was assigned to the 42nd Division, and took part in the Argonne fighting, serving with distinction. After the armistice he was in charge of troops of the occupation at Coblenz. Major Arnold came to Constantinople early in May. During his ten months of service as Manager of the Near East Relief, he built up an organization that has touched every needy district in the field assigned in the Turkish Empire, from Palestine to the Black Sea, from Persia to Greece. Despite the handicaps to transportation and to supply and the difficulties due to clash of racial prejudices among the population Major Arnold has kept the relief work continuous everywhere with the loyal cooperation of his helpers. He has kept in intimate touch with every part of the field and just before his return to America he made an extended tour of the interior centers. The Chamber of Commerce regrets the departure of Major Arnold for America, appreciating as it does his interest and active cooperation in its work as Director of the Chamber. Col. J. P. Coombes, also from the A. E. F., is the present Manager of the Near East Relief.
